

SALES AND DESIGN

These representatives are the first impression that a client has of the company. Among other things, they should be professional, knowledgeable, outgoing, receptive, and courteous. They should understand all products, concepts, materials, and always be adaptable to new ideas. Most importantly, they should possess excellent verbal and written communication skills as they will be responsible for communicating with clients on a daily basis. Applicants applying for this position must have experience in sales and knowledge of the landscape industry.

